INTRODUCTION TO OBSTETRIC ULTRASOUND COMPETENCE WORKSHOP

Tygerberg O&G Ultrasound Unit

Certificate of Competence in the Basic Obstetric Ultrasound Examination

The Stellenbosch University has set up a process for certification of competence in the Basic Obstetric Ultrasound Examination to ensure that those performing this examination have been adequately trained to do so.

The requirements for the “Certificate of Competence in the Basic Obstetric Scan” of Stellenbosch University are:

- Attendance of the theoretical course “Introduction to Obstetric Ultrasound”, hosted by the Tygerberg O&G Ultrasound Unit
- Passing a theoretical exam which aims to test that the candidate has understood the concepts of the theoretical course
- Practical training in performing the basic obstetric scan
- Passing the structured assessment of a logbook with predefined thermal images demonstrating a selection of planes that form part of the basic obstetric ultrasound examination within one year of the course (the criteria according to which the images will be assessed are available from StellMed). The candidate does not need to pass the logbook on the first attempt but will be allowed two re-submissions after receiving structured feedback from the assessors within one year.

To obtain the Certificate of Competence in the Basic Obstetric Ultrasound Examination from the Stellenbosch University, the candidate needs to register for the competence certificate that will include the assessment process.

Officially approved by:

SASUOG

South African Society for Ultrasound in Obstetrics and Gynaecology
